Intuitive Medical Software Receives 2011 CCHIT Certification

Springfield, Missouri – August 27, 2010 – Intuitive Medical Software, LLC, a Springfield, Mo. based electronic health record software company, announced today that its product, UroChartEHR version 4.0, is a pre-market conditionally CCHIT Certified® 2011 Ambulatory EHR. IMS received a 5-star rating for UroChartEHR, a urology specific EHR. A 5-star rating is the highest rating offered by the Certification from the Certification Commission for Health Information Technology (CCHIT®).

To receive certification, an EHR must score 100% in all areas. The CCHIT Certified 2011 certification program includes a rigorous inspection of integrated EHR functionality, interoperability and security. Those looking to purchase an EHR should be aware that all products in the CCHIT Certified 2011 program have undergone initial testing using real-life medical scenarios and, as part of the process of becoming fully certified, successful use is verified at live sites. UroChartEHR was previously certified in CCHIT's 2008 Ambulatory EHR certification program and continues to demonstrate its commitment to remain current on the latest standards set forth for EHR technology.

"We believe this is a testament to our commitment to offer a software system that actually works in a urology practice, offering physicians what they want and need: a fully customizable, easy to use health record system," says Craig Frazier, IMS CEO. "We understand what urologists need, and we deliver that every day, which is why we were able to receive the highest rating in all areas, especially functionality and ease of use."

The CCHIT Certified EHR certification is especially important to doctors or hospitals that have limited experience buying and implementing health information technology and need to rely on an EHR company to provide a complete product, service and support. The CCHIT Certified "seal of approval" for EHR products provides a recognized benchmark for ambulatory EHR products.

"Staying current with CCHIT certification is essential to optimizing the EHR opportunity for our customers. However, maintaining ease of use and practice productivity is equally important," Frazier says. "Achieving the highest CCHIT usability score and our high user adoption rate is evidence of our focus on urologists and their specific needs."

About Intuitive Medical Software, LLC

Founded by Dr. Howard Follis (<http://www.intuitivemedical.com/ourteam.aspx>), Intuitive Medical Software, LLC develops software products for select surgical and medical specialty physicians in the US. UroChartEHR, IMS' flagship product, is streamlined for urology practices. Recognizing the short-comings of generic EHRs when used in specialty practices, IMS has developed an EHR software product that combines a unique, efficient user interface with state-of-the-art database architecture. UroChartEHR includes IMS' patent-pending timeline method of organizing electronic medical records. IMS' current customers have found that once the urologists and their staff become familiar with the system, their clinic's efficiency and productivity rise. With its innovative approach to specialty EHR software, IMS plays a significant role in transforming the quality of our nation's healthcare. Intuitive Medical Software, LLC is not associated or affiliated in any way with Intuitive Surgical, Inc. To learn more about IMS, please visit www.urochartehr.com.
